IX. Appropriate Eye Contact:

During the personal introduction (name, title, author), and during any narration, the actor should look at the entire audience. During these times, any look away from the audience will = 1 tally mark. For every second of lost eye contact = 1 tally mark.

Since one actor is playing all the roles in the skit, each character should be looking at the characters he/she is talking to, unless it supports the plot for them to look somewhere else, or at the audience. Example - A sad child may look down at the ground when scolded by a parent etc.
